Activity Directions

1. Discuss the stories and list the 3-5 strengths and weaknesses you recognize in each story.

2. Record your findings for each story on the chart paper.

3. Select one person from your table to represent your group.
6+1 Traits Of Writing

Questions to Ponder:

1. Did you have set criteria as you made your decision?

2. What criteria did you use?

3. What type of criteria do you use in your classroom and how do your students know and understand that criteria?
6+1 Traits Of Writing

Let's think about this.....

Think, pair-square share, activity

- How did you learn to write in school?
- What type of training did you have to teach writing?
“I always did well on essay tests. Just put everything you know on there, maybe you’ll hit it. And then you get the paper back from the teacher and she’s written just one word across the top of the page, “vague”.”
I thought “vague” was kind of vague. I’d write underneath it “unclear,” and send it back. She’d return it to me, “ambiguous”. I’d send it back to her, “cloudy.” We’re still corresponding to this day…“hazy”…“muddy”…”
Information is Power

Students must have clear targets to meet our expectations.

Richard Stiggins
Effective Criteria

1. Speak the user’s language.

2. Give the user a vocabulary for talking about and thinking about performance in a given area.

3. Zero in on what’s really important, what’s really valued.

4. Narrow the performance area down to manageable scope and size.
5. Establish realistic, attainable goals and standards.

6. Establish beginning points, not signs of failure.

7. Define and clearly separate levels of performance, making it easy to observe and chart growth.

8. Are easy to internalize and remember.

9. Are always open to refinement and new thinking.
“We must change from a model that picks winners to one that creates winners.”

Harold Hodgkinson
Michigan: The State and Its Educational System
“Teachers ask the wrong question first... “What do we do?” -- putting the focus immediately on designing tasks - when they need to ask “What do we want kids to know and be able to do? How well? What does quality look like?” [We] need to ask these questions very clearly first.”

ADVANTAGES OF ANALYTIC SCORING

- Offers a broad perspective
- Challenges us to think of writing in new ways
- Gives us a model for responding to students' writing
- Provides vocabulary for talking with students about writing
- Provides a solid foundation for revision and editing
- Allows students to become evaluators

RUBRICS

IDEAS

- Intriguing
- Meaningful
- Satisfying
- Purposeful
- Sumptuous detail
- Informative
- Interesting tidbits

General statements
Coming into focus
Functional
Topic too big
Intriguing possibilities
Just a taste

Perplexing
cliché

Searching for ideas
Random thoughts
Topic not clear
A bare beginning
Hard to paraphrase
5 Focused, clear, specific, & enhanced by significant detail that captures reader’s interest:

- Paper creates a vivid impression, makes a clear point, or tells a whole story
- Thoughts are clearly expressed and directly relevant to main theme or story
- Writer selectively & purposefully uses information to make the topic understandable & interesting.
- Quality details interest the reader

3 Some really good parts, some not there yet:

- It is easy to see where the writer is headed, even if some telling details are needed to complete the picture
- The reader can grasp the big picture, though general observations still outweigh specifics

1 Just beginning to figure out what I want to say:

- The writer still needs to clarify topics
- The reader often feels information is limited, unclear, or simply a loose collection of facts or details that, as yet, do not add up to a coherent whole.
Self-assessment

IDEAS

5 My reader will learn a lot. It’s really clear.
This is just what I wanted to say. It all makes sense.

3 I’m working on it! You might have some questions.
I need to add details.
My reader will get the general idea.

1 I need more time to think. The picture is not clear.
It’s hard to get started.
I’m afraid my reader won’t follow.

6+1 Traits Of Writing

Each trait can be taught in steps -

Step 1:

Teachers can choose from a wealth of appropriate literature for teaching a given trait. Use the 6 Traits Language.

READ!!
Step 2. Students work on several writing activities to develop the trait. Teacher modeling very important.

Step 3. Students work with anonymous sample student papers, as a class and in groups. They rate the papers using the 6 Trait rubric & discuss their ratings. Practice revision strategies on sample papers.
6+1 Traits Of Writing

Step 4. Teacher provides an assignment connecting to curriculum (focusing on one trait at a time). Can use R.A.F.T.S assignments.

Students then use a rubric of that trait to peer respond/edit each other’s work.

Step 5. Teacher assesses.
6\textsuperscript{+1} Traits Of Writing

Step 7. Guide students through the revision process based on feedback they received.

Step 8. Use the specified rubric to assign a “rating”.

Strong Verbs: capture, encourage, urge, persuade, entice
TRAINING SCHEDULE:

September 27, 2011 - OVERVIEW

November 15, 2011 - VOICE
Voice is the soul of the piece. It’s what makes the writer’s style singular, as his or her feelings and convictions come out through the words.

January 17, 2012 - WORD CHOICE
Word choice is at its best when it includes the use of rich, colorful, precise language that moves and enlightens the reader.

February 21, 2012 - ORGANIZATION
Organization is the internal structure of the piece, the thread of meaning, the logical pattern of the ideas.
